Operating Company to Concentrate on Work at Michel

VICTORIA, March 29.—(Advices were received here, Tuesday, that the Crown's Nest Coal Company would cease operation of the coal mines of Fernie, in southern British Columbia, main support of a population of 1,800 people.)

Thomas Uphill, Labor member from Fernie, has given notice that he will ask the legislature that the mine be turned over to interests which will operate them.

The Crown's Nest Coal Company, it is said, intends to concentrate its operations at Michel, but this it is stated, will not be sufficient to absorb the miners from Fernie.

Mr. Uphill declares that without mining operations Fernie will become a flag station.

NORMAN BALLIE-STEWART
LONDON, March 29.—(Norman Ballie-Stewart, lieutenant of the Seaforth Highlanders accused of selling military secrets to a foreign agent, will remain under guard in the tower of London as he did during the 67 days he awaited his court martial.)

Just before he was taken away to the tower last night he heard the ruling of the court martial that "sentence will be promulgated in due course."

The charges that Lieutenant Ballie-Stewart sold military secrets have centered around 498 which he received in letters from Berlin. His defense was that this money was in payment for his love-making and that it came from a young German woman known to him only as "Marie Louise."

Worshipper Injured As Big Stone Falls

MONTREAL, March 29.—(Inter-ruption of the quiet prayers of a mission service, a huge 60-pound stone dislodged itself from above an entrance to Holy Redeemer church here and tumbled to the ground. Gratien Prejean, 29, was grazed. His injuries required hospital treatment.)

Opposing Counsel Make Addresses to Jury Wednesday Forenoon

The prosecution and defense got through with their last witness in the long drawn-out W. Ross Alger trial at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, and opposing counsel made their address to the jury on Wednesday forenoon.

The jury's verdict with regard to the innocence or guilt of the broker on charges of misappropriation of 144,000 of clients funds may be announced some time Wednesday evening. Chief Justice Simmon presided at the trial. The evidence alone took seven days to submit, nearly 60 witnesses were examined, and around 170 documents, checks, financial statements, vouchers and ledgers were filed as exhibits.

James J. Frawley acted as chief prosecutor, assisted by J. W. McChung, of the attorney general's department. S. Bruce Smith was chief defense counsel, assisted by Bruce Maslin.

CALLED IN REBUTTAL

E. D. Thompson, government accountant, was the last witness, being called by the crown in rebuttal of certain expert opinion testimony given by Francis G. Winthrop, defense accounting expert. Mr. Thompson stepped down from the stand at 3:35, whereupon Mr. Smith expressed his willingness to then commence his address to the jury.

His lordship asked the jury to retire and consider whether they wanted to hear the addresses of opposing counsel at this late hour. After a few minutes, the jury returned and announced that it would be better to commence in the morning, whereupon court adjourned.

Thompson's evidence related that the famous exhibit No. 3, the hand register, was a vital part of the so-called bookkeeping system of the company.

John Ryland, now serving a sentence at Port Saskatchewan on a charge of guilt in certain thefts from the Ross Alger clients, was called as rebuttal by the crown with regard to the "fixing up" conspiracy charge between himself, Jack Tyne and H. C. L. Gillman.

while during the forenoon by Harry Park-Gray, defense witness, at the Tuesday forenoon session.

DENIAL GIVEN

Ryland denied absolutely that there had been any such attempt to "fix" Gillman, or that there had been any conversation relative to such a proceeding, or that he had ever confessed to Alger that there had been such a conspiracy.

Ryland gave his own explanations as to 28123. He stated that on one occasion when he had gone to Alger about a Mrs. Donaldson complaining about non-delivery of a bond, Alger had remarked, "Do you know of any bond you can pick up to keep her quiet?"

Ryland related that on one occasion Alger had asked if it would not be possible to get hold of a $100,000 block of Dominion bonds formerly held by the defunct N. A. Kilburn brokerage company, in the name of "Joe"—the witness averring that Alger had said, "It would be nice to get that block to pay off smaller creditors and tide us over."

Under cross-examination by Mr. Smith, Ryland denied that he had suggested that the card index of prospects was secret or mysterious. He admitted having been under the influence of liquor when he had confessed to certain of his own delinquencies to Alger.

The "fixing" story he branded as ridiculous.

H. C. L. Gillman was then called again, and said that he had never received any money for "fixing" certain delinquencies in the books, nor had Ryland sent him a phone call of warning when government officers had been tipped in the Ross Alger office.

Mr. Thompson, the last witness, was then called, and was subjected to severe cross-examination by Mr. Smith, after he had told the court, under a question from His Lordship, that the bond register was "one of the most vital books in the company."

Heated objections were made of Mr. Thompson being allowed to testify, as his lordship had said, as an "opinion" nature, but the objections were over-ruled.

DOUG JUNIOR ASSERTS SUIT IS EXTORTION

Heart Balm Claims Actor is Due to Rank Conspiracy

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 29.—(Branding a $60,000 allegation of extortion and false imprisonment suit filed against him by Jorgen Dietz, Los Angeles chemical engineer, a conspiracy to extort money, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., today denied all the charges in an answer filed in Superior court.)

The movie actor's answer asserts that Dietz's suits are a part of a conspiracy concocted by Dietz and his present wife, the former Lucy Dornan, to extort money. It also relates the couple demanded $4,000 from him on threat of publishing an account of Fairbanks' alleged alteration of allegations of Dietz's former wife, Solveig, who is now in Denmark.

Prince Of Wales Annoyed By 'Reds' On Glasgow Tour

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 29.—(A tour of Glasgow by the Prince of Wales today was marred by two unpleasant incidents.)

A man, allegedly a Communist, who was addressing a group at a corner, refused to halt his speech while the Prince was passing. Police took him off his platform and to a police station.

When the Prince visited Saint Roch's recreational club, a window was smashed by stones thrown as the royal car drove up. Police were unable to locate those responsible.

There are large numbers of Communists in the Glasgow population. Unusual incidents started at the very moment of the Prince's arrival.

Just before he emerged from his sleeping car, a man broke through the lines of police and station officials to the door of the royal car. He held the station master, who stopped him there, that he had an engagement with the Prince, but policemen rushed forward and escorted him outside the station.

The Prince came here on a three-day tour of unemployment centers to Scotland.

This afternoon while he was visiting a home for the jobless Communists assembled in a side street nearby waving red flags and singing "The Internationale," police cleared them out and their place was taken quickly by another crowd singing "God Save the King."

Raid On Soviet Hamburg Offices Brings Reproach

MOSCOW, March 29.—(The raid in Hamburg, Germany, yesterday by criminal and political police on a branch of the Soviet trade delegation today drew a caustic reproach from newspaper correspondents.)

"Our government will not accept this outrageous procedure the most energetic protest," (The police in raiding the trade delegation office yesterday, said they were searching "for a person whose arrest had been ordered.")

The officers were searched without finding the man they sought, but the delegation's records were not disturbed.)

As a result of preparation for the World's Grain Show many of the effects hoped for are already being missed of every country in the world. Not only is Canada in the but farmers all over the Dominion world to a greater extent than ever than in the showing of pure seed.

THE CAR OF THE CAREFUL INVESTOR

THESE three old stand-bys have appeared in automobile ads for years. You couldn't write anything about a $5000 car somebody hasn't already written about a $500 car.

But this new Hupmobile needs no superlatives. No "glittering generalities." If we just set down the plain facts—and if you check them—you will see that this Hupmobile needs no "ballyhoo" to demonstrate that it has no competition at its price!

Its body design won Seven First Prizes in Europe for style and elegance. Amazing economy on gas and oil. Every sound mechanical feature of 1933, many of them exclusively Hupmobile's. Like all Hupmobiles, it will require few repairs. And command a higher trade-in allowance years from now than any other car of its class.

We might accept your old car as the whole down payment on a new Hupmobile. And probably the money you spend each month on repairs and wasted gas and oil will equal your monthly installments. Let's talk it over.

Farmer Picketers Halt Truck, Dump Big Car of Silk
ROCHESTER, N.Y., March 29.—(Farmers picketing the highway near Bushnell's Basin, 10 miles southeast of here, stopped two trucks loaded with milk today and dumped the cargo as the long conflict with wholesale milk prices flared up with a producers' strike that threatened to tie up half of the city's milk supply.)

The drivers of the trucks offered no resistance as can often be poured on the road.

Led by members of the Western New York Milk Producers' association, about 1,000 dairy farmers have determined to bring no milk into the city today. The action was taken at a meeting yesterday and will extend to April 2, said Albert J. Hoad, president of the association.

Keats to Gagne

These magic words that meant disaster to the enemy scores of fans in the old Western Canada League, re-echoed and resounded to their ears last night after a brilliant play. Keats to Gagne, broke up an overtime battle and gave Gagne the first championship of the new Western Canada circuit.

Probably fate had a hand in it. Certainly it was a grand goal and it was a deserving decade of fate that these two players should get it.

And now, as a result of it, these Eskimos of ours are champions after as close a fight as any team has ever made throughout a season in any sport. They deserve the plaques of the three, the League.

Trailing the pack, the League race for the biggest part of the season and harried by a series of injuries and ailments, the Eskimos finally found their way into third place and the playoffs. They won their first away-from-home game of the season in the final play-off against Vancouver, and last that team out to enter the final against Calgary.

In these final against the Tigers, the Eskimos showed their true ability. After trying the first two games, they came up two straight wins. A 3-1 reverse was handed them in the fifth game Monday, something that might have put a less-than team off its stride for days, but not the Eskimos. They came right back to win a great battle in overtime last night. And that's the true test of champions.

Some 2,000 fans never faltered after that setback of the Eskimos Monday and turned out for last night's game. And were they rewarded? Just ask them today.

It was a really sparkling hockey game and the goody crowd of fans from beginning to end.

Some of the customers had come prepared to sit through two games, if that many were needed to decide the championship. But Gagne's second goal and the cheering that greeted it showed plainly the fans' approval.

Hand the palm to Art Gagne, by the way, for the scintillating hockey he played. The flying Frenchman has provided as many grand moments through his career as his past winter, and last night's performance was a fitting climax to a wonderful season. He is a fine type of athlete and Edmonton certainly has appreciated his many dazzling displays.

Lord Tupper's Tigers have the rugged feeling of the lone left out in the cold after a whole winter of the top of the heap in the Western Canada League. They led the race from beginning to end, only to be left behind in the end. The gap came up to beat them out of the honors that go to the club.

It's been a long season and the boys will now be ready for a rest after a strenuous campaign and an even more strenuous playoff series.

Arrows Plaster New Haven Squad

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 29.—The league-leading Philadelphia Arrows plastered a 4-0 defeat last night on the New Haven Eagles in the third round of the playoffs.

In the third round of the playoffs, the Arrows goal, left his nets long enough to lead a score of 4-0. The Eagles were appalled by the onslaught of the Arrows.

Phillips, McCordick, Collins and Pratt were the scorers.

Lead Eskimos To Title

Two men who played major roles in leading the Eskimos to the Stanley Cup finals of 1932, again have brought a professional hockey championship to Edmonton. Gordon B. "Duke" Keats, right, below, owner and playing manager of the Eskimos, and Arthur Gagne, left, his great right-winger, last night were leading figures in bringing the Western Canada League title to Edmonton in the sixth game of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Gagne scored both Edmonton goals in the 2-1 triumph, getting the winning marker in overtime on a fine pass from Keats.

GAGNE SCORES GOAL TO PASS FROM DUKE KEATS TO WIN IN EXTRA TIME

QUAKERS RIDE HARD AGAINST FORT WILLIAM

By BILL LEWIS
Blazing the rubber home on a perfect pass-out from crafty Duke Keats, after four minutes of overtime play, brilliant Art Gagne scored his second winning goal of the game to give the Eskimos a 2-1 victory over Calgary Tigers, and that scintillating tally brought Edmonton its first professional hockey championship in ten years.

Gagne broke up a sparkling battle in the sixth game of the playoffs series at the Arena last night and won for the Eskimos the first title to be awarded in the new Western Canada Hockey League.

The goal sent the crowd of 3,000 fans into tumultuous cheering as they gave unreserved acclaim to the team bringing the only professional crown to this city since the Eskimos were out in the old Western Canada circuit in 1923 and went on to the Stanley Cup final.

GREAT OFFENSIVE

It was a Herculean offensive that brought the sensational winning goal. Keats, Gagne and Johnson broke through the Tigers' defense well on a rush with the "Iron Duke" carrying the puck. He was forced out to the right and behind the goal where a determined Calgary defender tried to hem him in and possession. But another pass from the great Eskimo skipper helped him out of this tight corner.

Duke shook off his persistent checker and sent a pass straight out in front of the Calgary goal. Gagne, who, in the meantime, had been watched closely by the cager, was there, right in front of the goal, although he was not the best shot in the game. However, the flashy right-winger picked up the fine pass on the back end and shot it into the goal high into a corner of the net.

McCluskey, who had been watching a desperate lurch to get it, could do nothing but to watch it go. Gagne's shot was a perfect one and went up to signal the winning goal and the teams skated from the ice amid the tremendous cheering that was set up in honor of the Eskimos.

GRAND CLIMAX

That effort brought to a grand finish one of the most spectacular playoffs in the history of Western Canada. After trying the first two games of the series, the Eskimos won the next pair by 2-1 and 2-0. Monday night's play-off to force the round over the five-game limit. The teams went into action with the most effective of the best players in the league.

President E. L. Richardson to play the game. It was necessary, but to victory for the Eskimos would mean a great deal to the city.
